

STOP ATTACKING President Obama's Health Care Reform

Board of Directors
Whole Foods Market
Austin, TX 78703

Dear Board Members,

We are shocked to read your Wall Street Journal editorial attacking President Obama's efforts to reform America's ailing health care system.

Shame on you for seeking to shift the healthcare burden even further onto individuals, and for calling for less government help in solving America's health care crisis. Double shame on you for attacking our President who has the courage to stand up to the special interests in the insurance industry. While the Universal Declaration of Human Rights proclaims medical care as a right of all humanity – you declare there should be no such right.

Most of all, we are outraged that a company purporting to have as its core values the creation of a healthier society would stoop to a McCarthyesque smear campaign. You even start your attack on President Obama with a Margaret Thatcher screed against socialism.

We call upon Whole Foods, and your principal supplier UNFI, to promote a sustainable organic food supply chain and sustainable jobs, and support our President's efforts for a sustainable health care system for America.
